DPDP RULES TO BE NOTIFIED IN 10 DAYS

Online Gaming Act to take effect from Oct 1: Vaishnaw

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, September 18

THE GOVERNMENT WILL implement the Promotion and Regulation of Online Gaming Act from October 1, and the long-awaited digital personal data protection (DPDP) rules will be notified within the next 10 days, electronics and IT minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said on Thursday.

Speaking at a pre-event conference for the upcoming AI Impact Summit 2026, the minister said both measures followed extensive stakeholder consultations and were now in their final stages.

The Online Gaming Act, passed by Parliament last month and now notified as a law, prohibits all forms of online money games while encouraging e-sports and social gaming.

Vaishnaw said the government has been in continuous discussions with the industry for nearly three years, including multiple rounds even after the law was passed, to fine-tune its implementation. Banks and other stakeholders were also roped in to resolve

ASHWINI VAISHNAW,
ELECTRONICS & IT MINISTER

We will hold another round of discussions with the industry. If more time is needed, we will consider it issues such as the handling of funds left in user accounts. "We have finalised the rules, but we will hold one more round of discussions with the industry. If more time is needed, we will consider it, since our approach has always been consultative," Vaishnaw said.

Despite this flexibility, he underlined that the government is targeting October 1 as the start date for enforcement.

On the DPDP rules, Vaishnaw said that the framework is complete and ready for release.

"The rules are ready, about to be published in a few days from now," he said, indicating they will be notified by September 28.

The regulations are expected to bring clarity on consent, data storage and user rights, completing the operational framework of the DPDP Act that was cleared earlier.

Separately, at the Public Affairs Forum of India's annual event, Vaishnaw stressed the need to maintain focus on growth and self-reliance amid global turbulence.

He cited recent initiatives in semiconductors and 5G as evidence of India's drive to build resilient talent and technology ecosystems, and urged stakeholders to actively contribute ideas for the next wave of economic reforms.

Private users may withdraw 80% of NPS corpus

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, September 18

IN A MAJOR reform of the national pension system (NPS), the pension regulator has proposed to increase the lump sum payout to non-government sector subscribers to 80% and reduce annuitisation to 20% of their corpus at the time of exit from the scheme.

In its proposed amendments to the norms, the Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority

SWEEPING CHANGES

■ It has been proposed that pvt sector subscribers can exit NPS schemes after 15 years

■ Subscribers can withdraw as many as six times, from three times currently

■ The draft norms have proposed to increase the age limit for entry into NPS from up to 70 years to 75 years three times now during the vesting period, to meet their liquidity requirements. It has also proposed enabling provision for subscribers to seek financial assistance from regulated financial institutions against their individual pension account.

The proposed changes are in addition to PFRDA's recent move to permit fund managers to customise and offer multiple schemes with equity exposure up to 100% to private-sector subscribers.

(PFRDA) has also proposed that private sector subscribers can also exit from NPS schemes after 15 years of investing.

As per extant norms, a private sector subscriber can withdraw a maximum 60% as a lump sum after attaining 60 years of age, while the remaining 40% has to be annuitized for a regular monthly pension. The draft norms have also proposed to increase the age limit for entry into NPS from up to 70 years to 75 years and exit from NPS from 75 years to 85 years. Subscribers can also withdraw as many as six times from

EU chief: Bloc needs deals with India

THE EUROPEAN UNION (EU) must look to trade deals with countries like India to reduce dependencies, with higher US import tariffs pushing the bloc to diversify its ties, European Commission president Ursula von der Leyen said on Thursday.

"We want to make a deal with India this year," von der Leyen said at a conference with German business leaders, adding that Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi had assured her of his commitment to this goal in a phone call on Wednesday.

"We are in talks with South Africa, Malaysia, the United Arab Emirates and others," she added.

The US relies more heavily on imports from the EU than European Commission president said the bloc wants to make a deal with India this year. Talks are also on with South Africa, Malaysia and the UAE commonly assumed, with the bloc surpassing China in both total value and the number of goods, according to a study from Germany's IW economic institute, reported Reuters.

That dependence has grown significantly over the past 15 years, with the number of product groups in which at least 50% of imports came from the EU rising to over 3,100 last year, from more than 2,600 in 2010, according to IW.
